staying "happy" with food, sex, other distractions/entertainments, is that it floods the spiritual antenna(e)? the so-called finer tastes are obliterated

if you're really satisfied with food, sex, skiing, the movies, etc. then you're probably a sage

- what makes a sitcom interesting is that the characters are predictable
- they ARE only a persona... not a real sape
- writers must consider if a certain behavior is "in character" for that role with respect to food, our "natural" instincts are now WRONG.

our natural inclination is to eat everything available ~~now~~ now food/nutrition WAS a limiting factor for millions of years

NOT ANY MORE

i'm considering a purchase of ibook it will be working with my G4/400/OSX

i've never had a portable before, and i could use a little advice concerning ~~its use~~ file maintenance, backing up, etc.

i plan on getting a 30 GB drive all of my App OSX + OS9 + my users Directory occupy about 20 GB should i simply reproduce my G4/400 apps + users should the system on my ibook be use same owner/password as my floor top

(laughter)

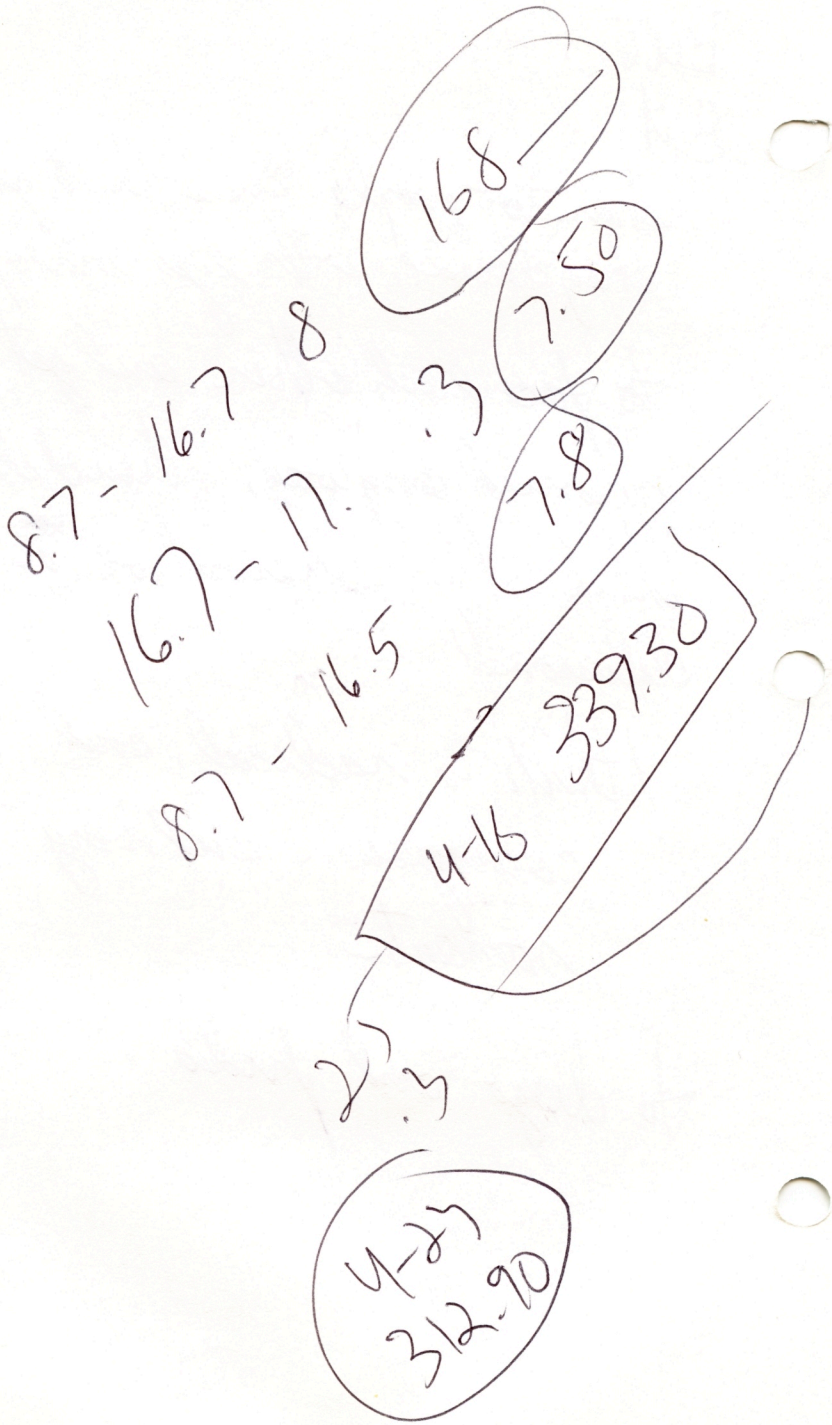

I don't believe in marriage.
No, I really don't.
Let me be clear about that.
I think, at worst, it's a hostile political act a way for small-minded men to keep women in the house and out of the way wrapped up in the queer tradition and conservative religious nonsense at best, it's a happy delusion two people who truly love each other and have no idea how truly miserable they are about to make each other.

16,699

But... when two people know that, and they decide, with eyes wide open, to face each other and get married anyway, then I don't think it's conservative or delusional I think is radical, and courageous... and very romantic.

inappropriate

- infinity is a ~~bogus~~ concept in some domains
  - it implies too much
- chomsky's emphasis on so-called infinite creativity of language
- our experience isn't infinite
  - it is unrestricted / unrestrained
  - ~~unlimited~~
  - this experience, now moving stuff

easily identifiable stuff patterns naming

- animals make and distinguish between multiple calls - grunts 16,735
- the meanings are conventional
- First name easily distinguished "stuff"
- Attention is called to certain stuff and not other stuff linguistic / ergodic ergodic language — math is a written lang. so is gordo numbers are "artifacts" objects 0-9

what are the artifacts of language.
could be alphabet strings of fonz URDZ

how many words — 25,000 - ~~10,000~~ 5,000

16,736

at bottom

- names of things – experiential
  - isolates
- relations (time + space)
- color
- size
- texture

(0-9) seems so limited... but look what it has wrought it is so limited and yet so powerful decussation

auditory pathway 8th vestibulo cochlear nerve

- we already had language when we invented math.
- greeks had math

16,737

math was a restriction on the freedom of greek - geek

? what does it mean to "make sense"
- or to not "make sense"
• it must be "grammatical"

? what does english/e'/Earthling map. (numbers map "quantity")

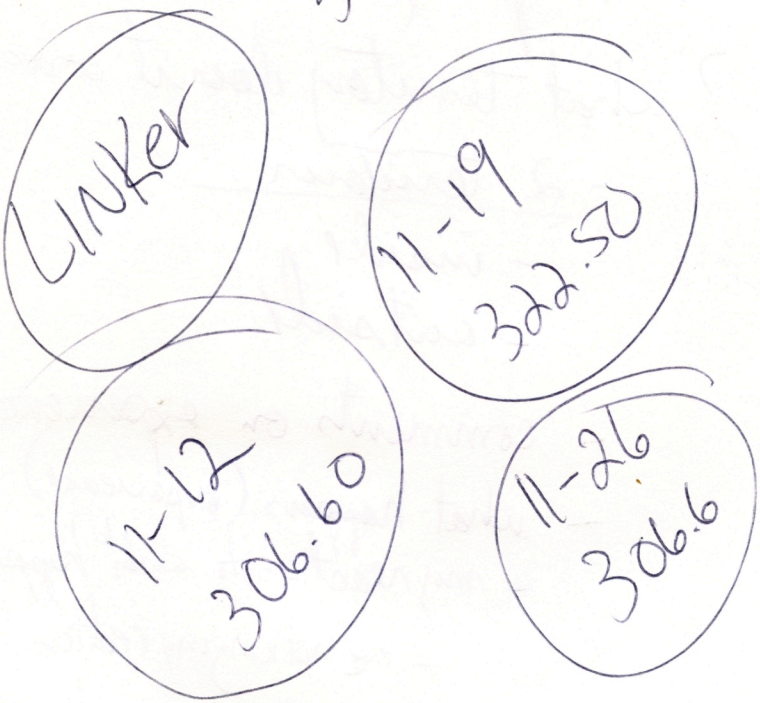

? what territory does it cover.
- 2 territories
- inside
- outside
- comments on experience
- what happens. (experience)
- my reaction to what happens
- me noticing my reation
- me noticing my noticing

16,73E

-language is essentially a muscular symbolic activity

most people believe everything they think they said it

Unconscious assumptions

Most of what we mean by "think" is language - talking to ourselves silently debugging english - Earthling — a debugged subset of wild english - designed for clear thinking + accurate/precise communication reprogramming after puberty — difficult for most of you, its too late scholarly obsession has always been language/linguistics

Although my degree is in philosophy/music, my ~~education~~ obsession is linguistic... specifically the relationships between language and thinking/creativity/problem-solving/~~etc.~~ psychological well-being/etc.

about 10 years ago, through a series of fortunate misunderstandings and misidentification, I found myself teaching ESL at a small private Korean-owned ESL/TOEFL school

I fell in love with it

I discovered that (as a result of my musical training) I have a gift in assisting ESL students to ~~learn~~ acquire ~~spk~~listening/speaking skills

In the ~~following~~ years since, I have written a complete curriculum for ESL spk/hrng skills the curriculum is based upon the proposal that before you can speak like an American, you've gotta hear like an american. Depending on a students unique characteristics, it take between 100 and 300 hours of training for them to reprogram their ears to hear english accurately. After that, they can correct their own speaking.

13,915

the system requires minimal teacher time since all the ~~training~~ can be dictation/listening practice can be accomplished using a CD or an internet site.

(2) While working at one of the now forgotten schools, i developed ~~and an admittance~~ placement tests an admittance/placement testing instrument. It was a very simple procedure that took only a few minutes, during which a student was asked to listen to and repeat increasing lengthy and complex utterances. It was a very good tool for identifying a students speaking/hearing/syntactical skills.

13.9.16

I've never assisted students in a computer lab but I have no doubt that I could handle that easily and effectively.

ear-training

one skill underlies all spoken/written english real langug begin in the ear actually it begin in the physical vibrations of the ~~fertilized~~ egg (perhaps even the unfertilized eggs that have eggisted for years... vibrating to the tune of the carriers' carriers' speaking

---

~~Get~~ although ~~the~~ english as a second lang will never be the same as a 1st language, it can be even more important/useful to you because of fewer unconscious erroneous ass-umptions

- you may find the same things

13.966

TOEFL pre-english mastering english begins in the ears all language begins in the ears first then the mouth the "stuff" of language is sounds... a system of sounds.

the primary task of joining a lang. community is mastering the sound system

all other skills emerge from that system

the

I'm not teaching TOEFL per se

I'm teaching THE basic skill in any language... the one from which all others emerge/sprout/grow/etc.

2) those who want to get a degree from an american university and then go home to korea and stay there and be a korean

* from an earthling

13.970

- developing ears - a listening system - tuned to the language you want to learn language is fundamentally a phenomenon of the ~~ears/mouth~~ listening/speaking system the basic building blocks of language are not words, ~~But~~ sounds phonemes the first task of a language learner is to master the sound system

this applies to ANYONE... ~~babies~~ infants or adults

13.971

historically, lang. has been ~~taught~~ ~~like~~ like other academically approached subjects. But lang doesn't work that way ... it is pre-intellectual intellect is made from lang... not visa versa building a new self - an english self.

- earthling - because the language should not be hindered by the ~~bad~~ ill repute of some of its speakers
